BUILDERS KEEPING PROMISE

New Houses Going Up in Manchester, Brookland Park and Barton Heights.

Barton Heights.

The building boom in and around Richmond continues without abatement. That is a real chestnut, but it differs from some chestnuts in that it has the virtue of being strictly true. Under the circumstances it is well worth repeating.

In every part of the city ground is being broken every day in the week, except Friday, for new houses of one kind and another. A venerable superstitution, as absurd as it is aged, is the only reason that the spade and pick-ax are not allowed to break up the earth for foundations on Fridays.

Messrs, C. W. and J. Lee Davis seem determined to keep their promise to furnish Richmond with a new rentable house each week this year. About two weeks ago they bought more land at the corner of Park Avenue and Sycamore Street, and are proceeding at once to haul up the material with which to erect eight more homes for the new population of Richmand or for the older part of it, if they want to buy or rent. Several other wise mon are doing the same kind of business, and their efforts are not confined to any particular part of the city, but they are general. However, the fact remains that Lee District and the far West End are still lending in the building line.

Manchester and the Suburbs.

The suburbs and Manchester are vicining with Richmond in keeping up the building boom. A prominent real estate agent of the regions to the south of the James says that Manchester is no way lagging behind in the matter of laying brick and natting on shingles. Business houses and residences of all kinds are being erected, and the old town is making desperate efforts to be able to house all the people who come within its borders.

Ground was broken in Barton Heights for two more houses the past week, and that runs the list of homes in the course of construction up to an even dozen.

In Breckland Park Mr. Harry Hickweek, and that runs the list of homes in the course of construction up to an even dozen.

In Brookland Park Mr. Harry Hickerson, Mr. Tascott and Mr. T. J. Traylor broke ground the past week for new homes. It is reported around Brookland that a gentleman wno recently bought much ground there will within the next two weeks start seven or eight new houses on their way to completion in time for fall occupancy.

ellent design, and are destined to be ery handsome homes.

Ginter Park long ago passed the uncertain stage in its development, and now keen rivairy for the choice locations has developed and the blocks adjacent to the seminary will soon be completely built up. The residents of Ginter Park ars, without exception, the most enthusiastic advocates of semi-rural life.

ROCKY MOUNT, N. C., May so,—Ine weather for the past ten days has been all that could be desired for the growing to-bacco crop, which has made a good start and is growing incely.
